ETHICAL PRINCIPLES

- Members of the PSMA hold the following fundamental ethical principles, which all members shall endeavor to uphold.
 - Reverence for all life.
 - Confidentiality in all professional relationships.
 - Clarity of communication.
 - Compassionate conduct towards clients, colleagues and the public.

OBLIGATIONS TO CLIENTS

Ethical Boundaries with Clients/Right Relationship

1. Undue influence occurs when one uses healer status or a position of trust to influence a more vulnerable person to do something outside of the healer relationship for the healer's personal benefit and at the expense of the client. The Plant Spirit Medicine Association considers this type of conduct to be an exploitation of the healer relationship.
2. A Plant Spirit Medicine Healer shall not exploit their position to his or her own advantage.
 - Examples include but are not limited to: Pressuring a client to continue to have sessions they don't need. Soliciting a client to give, lend or bequeath money to you. Charging unreasonable fees or withholding information about fees and associated costs until they have been incurred.

3. A Plant Spirit Medicine Healer shall not exploit his or her clients financially, sexually, emotionally or in any other way.
4. A Plant Spirit Medicine Healer will not undertake any form of sexual activity with a client in their care or with a student or supervisee in their tutelage or supervision.
5. A Plant Spirit Medicine Healer shall remember his or her responsibility to consider proper boundaries and ensure that proper boundaries are observed.
6. A Plant Spirit Medicine Healer, who experiences difficulty maintaining professional boundaries, shall uphold the Code of Ethics and Practice by taking his or her concerns to colleagues and/or by seeking consultation. If a satisfactory informal resolution is not possible, the matter shall be taken to a member of the Ethics committee who is authorized by the PSMA Board of Trustees to provide ethical guidance or clarify ethical standards of behavior.
7. If after informal consultation and Ethics Committee guidance, a Plant Spirit Medicine Healer is unable to resolve the situation in an acceptable manner, then the healing relationship needs to be ended. If a relationship is terminated, the needs of the client shall be a primary consideration and a referral to another Plant Spirit Medicine Healer, teacher or consultant needs to be provided.
8. Where a healing relationship has come to its natural end and both parties at some later time (minimum of 24 months) consider entering into an intimate relationship with each other, the burden is on the Plant Spirit Medicine Healer to demonstrate that the relationship does not violate this Ethics Code. In this circumstance, the PSMA recommends that the Healer seek out a suitably qualified professional to help them clarify and bring awareness to the power dynamics in that particular relationship in order to minimize the risk of power abuse.
9. A Plant Spirit Medicine Healer does not pressure clients to give, lend or bequeath money or gifts that would benefit the healer nor should they put pressure on clients or their families to make donations to other people or organizations.
10. A Plant Spirit Medicine Healer shall not be influenced or prejudiced by considerations concerning race, color, creed, religion, gender, sexual orientation, gender identity/expression, ancestry, age, physical characteristics, disability or veteran status.

Relationships with Colleagues

Dear Colleague,

Attached is a copy of the Plant Spirit Medicine Association (PSMA) Code of Ethics. We are sending it to you as a resource and guide to support you in your stewardship of Plant Spirit Medicine. Having a code serves to increase our credibility as Healers in the eyes of the public.

A code of ethics is an important aspect of membership and you are required to sign it to complete your application for membership. After reading the Code, please sign the last page and return this page with your application.

For those of you who are not familiar with it, the Code of Ethics was created over a three-year period with reference to other similar codes but tailored specifically for Plant Spirit Medicine Healers. We hope it will both inform and be helpful to you in your offering of Plant Spirit Medicine. It is a living document so there will be changes as we learn and grow as colleagues and as an association in the medicine. If we do make changes, you will be sent the new Code of Ethics and as always we welcome your comments, questions, and feedback. The PSMA will assume that you will abide by any future revisions of the Code of Ethics unless you notify us to the contrary. If anything is not clear to you in the Code please do not hesitate to contact us.
